Art Unit: 1754

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Kato et al, for the reasons given in the last Office Action.

Claims 1-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kato et al in view of Johnson et al, for the reasons given in the last Office Action.

Applicant's argument, that the Kato et al reference clearly seeks to utilize a dry flue gas, is not convincing. Johnson et al suggests at col. 2, lines 48-54 that there would be no condensation during the cooling step of Kato et al. There would also be no evaporation during the cooling step of Kato et al, since there is no heat or low pressure involved during the cooling step to effect such evaporation. Applicant has not explained how the humidity:mass ratio of the flue gas of Kato et al would not be maintained during the cooling step, in view of the absence of any condensation or evaporation during such cooling step.

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

Art Unit: 1754

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. There is no "description support" in the original specification for "maintaining the approximate humidity:mass ratio of said flue gas". The word "approximately" should be deleted to avoid this rejection. (See page 15, lines 1-4 of the original specification.)

Claims 14-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In claims 14 and 20, there is no antecedent basis for liberating "ammonia or an ammonia derivative" since the alkaline material recited in claim 3 would not necessarily contain ammonia. In claim 22, it is indefinite as to whether a sulfur-containing salt is required to be formed, since the addition of an alkaline material would not necessarily result in the formation of a sulfur-containing salt. In claims 28 and 30, it is indefinite as to whether a nitrogen-containing salt is required to be formed, since reducing the temperature of the pollutant-laden liquid would not necessarily result in the formation of a nitrogen-containing salt.
